Verbal Description:

A broken multi-hole candelero with 3 complete and six partial holes preserved. It was at least 9.8 cm across. The holes are larger than usual: the smallest is 2.3 cm at its upper margin, and 1.8 cm below; the largest is 3.2 cm at the top and 2.2 cm at the bottom. Burning is clear on the hole interiors. The preserved vent is 1.2 x 0.6 cm. The exterior is decorated between the vents with groups of 2 parallel diagonal slashes. Some smoothing was done after the slash marks: there is clay lapping over their edges. There seems to be a thin, light colored slip on all surfaces, though it is clearest on the upper surfaces between the holes. Slip color: 2.5 Y (6.5/2) light brownish gray -

From the cracks and breakage pattern light gray breakable?

I infer that this was made from several lumps of clay joined: there are interior cracks and probable join marks.

Paste interior color: 10 YR 5/3 brown
